

令和8年度春季入学春季募集 熊本県立大学大学院 環境共生学研究科
博士前期課程 外国人留学生特別選抜試験問題 英語 出題意図

This special selection graduate examination was created under the assumption that, by the time of study in the Graduate School, Division of Food and Health Science, students aiming for Masters placement should possess a firm grasp on what they would to pursue for their future in master's study, and also be proficient in Japanese to understand spoken and written English, and be able to translate it well enough to undertake study in the Prefectural University of Kumamoto. Their translation ability from English to Japanese should reflect the main points given in the passage, in content, sentence structure, and vocabulary, and should be coherent and understandable enough to be read and understood by the professor and other examiners. The final translation should be free of errors as much as possible. Correct usage and knowledge of kanji and Japanese cultural points will also be taken into account.